Best in Sweepstakes:

#19 - Muhlin Most Likely – A fawn-sable with black muzzle. A small, compact male with an intense expression. I was immediately taken by his beautiful large envelope shaped head. He has well cushioned cheeks, jet black pigment, very dark wide-set eyes and open facial features with ideal planes on his face. He was low to the ground, had no neck, had a short level back and he had ample amount of coarse coat which suited him well. His proportions were ideal to me in every way, and his arrogance and self importance in the ring was quintessentially Pekingese and could not be denied.

Best of Opposite Sex to Best in Sweepstakes:

#14 – Lon-Du Ven Mar Evita – A silver fawn with black muzzle. A medium/small sized bitch with a pretty expression and an open face, short level back with adequate coat and furnishings. She showed very well and was in wonderful condition.

Overall, I found good level toplines, nice sound movement, and very typey pekes. It was a pleasure to judge Sweepstakes and see consistent quality in the ring.
